COUNCIL TAX: REDUCTION FOR PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES - CONDITIONS

To be eligible for a reduction the conditions below must apply:

1. Your property must be the home of one or more 'substantially and permanently' physically disabled people (adult or child).

2. Your property must provide one or more of the following:

- A room, excluding a bathroom, kitchen or toilet that is predominantly used by and required for meeting the needs of the disabled person – eg. a room set aside for storing dialysis equipment..
- An additional bathroom or additional kitchen provided for the person with the disability.
- Extra space created inside the dwelling to allow for the use of a permanent wheelchair user.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: My property has been adapted with grab handles, rails and ramps. Does my property qualify?

A: Unfortunately not. These adaptations only aid movement around your property and do not fall into one of the three categories above.

Q: I have converted a downstairs room as a bedroom. Do I qualify?

A: Yes, provided the use of that room as a bedroom prevents or changes the use and occupation of the room by the rest of the household. The reason for the change must have a causative link to the residents disability. E.g. a living room converted to a bedroom due to mobility problems, which can no longer be used as a living room by the rest of the household. If the room can still partially be used as a living room, it will not qualify.

Q: Does the disabled person have to be the person whose name appears on the Council Tax bill?

A: No, the disabled person can be a child, or a relative or friend. However, they must live permanently at the property.

Q: I own a residential care home. Can I apply?

A: Yes. If you have a permanently disabled person living in your residential care home you may apply. If that person leaves you would no longer qualify as the reduction is granted due to a disabled person living there, and not because the property is a residential care home.

Q: My disabled son uses a wheelchair and sometimes stays with me; would I qualify for the reduction ?

A: Unfortunately not. To qualify for reduction, the disabled person must be permanently residing at the address as their sole or main residence (i.e. their main home).

Q: I have an en-suite bathroom, does this qualify as an extra bathroom?

A: Yes, provided you have constructed it. If the en-suite was there prior to you moving in, this will not qualify as the property has not been adapted.

Q: Can the Disabled Reduction be back-dated?

A: Yes, provided you have sufficient proof to show this e.g. a builders invoice for the adaptations or a Doctors letter confirming when your medical needs changed.

Q: What is classified as a medical practitioner?

A: Your doctor, occupational therapist or social worker.

If you believe that the conditions apply please complete the claim form attached.
