

Why build on Speckled Wood? It's a heritage. What percentage would it have in terms of housing?

Is the Council respecting the ratio oxygen / people in their plans?

Judging by the mess, inevitable, made by construction workers, how are the residents going to cope?

The Council will benefit from slashing down Speckled Wood, but children from Deepdene will not have anything left as far as Nature is concerned. What will the Council offer as an alternative mature woodland with stream, insects, dragonflies, rabbits, squirrels, badgers, pheasants, foxes, cuckoos and other birds and mammals?

The Council will be depriving small children of their daily walk to school and back. What will it say to them?

If the Council goes ahead with their plan of annihilating Speckled Wood, how many doors will that open to reducing considerable green spaces?
